Lincoln Sudbury Civic Orchestra Launches Chamber Music Concert Series

The Lincoln Sudbury Civic Orchestra (LSCO), in residence at the Lincoln-Sudbury Regional High School since 1973, has created a chamber music initiative, where members of the orchestra combine in conductor-less groups to perform works in small ensembles, ranging from duos to 12-members.

The LSCO Chamber Players will begin performing in the 2024-2025 season. Orchestra member Eric Hollander (viola) encouraged orchestra leadership to consider adding chamber music concerts to the regular orchestra calendar. Percussionist/timpanist Dave McLellan teamed up with Eric to organize a grassroots effort to form chamber ensembles from regular members of the orchestra.

Since 1973, the LSCO has performed two concerts per year at the Lincoln Sudbury Regional High School in January and June. The group will now add at least two chamber music concerts per year, to take place in the fall and spring of each year.

The LSCO Chamber Players make their debut Sunday November 3 at 3 PM at the Goodnow Library at 21 Concord Rd in Sudbury, MA. The library administration is very excited to host the debut concert: "With our history and longtime commitment to supporting music and the arts in Sudbury and surrounding communities, Goodnow Library is happy to welcome and host the Lincoln-Sudbury Civic Orchestra (LSCO) Chamber Players on November 3 for the premier performance of the orchestra's new chamber music series", says Assistant Director Karen Tobin. Administrator Douglas Grant, who will host the concert adds: "We expect this concert to be the start of a most successful and enjoyable collaboration between the LSCO and Goodnow Library!"

The groups will perform music by J. S. Bach, Franz Schubert, Franz Joseph Haydn, Frederick Hofmeister, Spiros Exaras, and others.

The Chamber Players will perform also at Bemis Hall, 15 Bedford Rd in Lincoln on Friday November 22 at 12:30 PM in a special program sponsored by the Lincoln Public Library, in collaboration with the Lincoln Council on Aging and Human Services.

Admission is free at both concerts at the Goodnow Library and Bemis Hall, and both facilities are handicap accessible.

For over 50 years, the LSCO has provided opportunities for talented students and supportive adults to perform orchestral literature of the great classical composers. LSCO has provided playing opportunities for over 500 student musicians and given over thirty student and adult concerto artists an opportunity to share their skills and love of classical music. Membership is open to the community regardless of their hometown. The orchestra rehearses every Tuesday evening from 7:30 – 9:30 PM in the large ensemble room at Lincoln-Sudbury Regional High School (LSRHS), 390 Lincoln Rd in Sudbury. Visit the orchestra web site at <https://www.lscivicorchestra.org>. Musicians interested in joining LSCO should contact the membership coordinator by email at lscivicorchestra@gmail.com, or use the Contact Us link at the orchestra web site.
